MYCON General Contractors Expands Business Development Efforts

DALLAS, TX, July 13, 2018 – MYCON has appointed Alexis Semach, PE as director of business development in support of the firm’s continued growth.

“We are thrilled to have such a well-known, respected business development professional like Alexis join our team,” says Dana Walters, MYCON’s vice president of business development. “Our skills and strengths complement each other, so we make a dynamic team in representing MYCON to the fullest extent.”

As director of business development for MYCON, Semach will identify, build and develop new client business opportunities with strategic targets in key industries, while also cultivating relationships with existing clients. When asked about her new role, Semach says, “I make friends for a living.”

Semach graduated with Bachelors and Masters of Science degrees in civil engineering with a focus in geotechnical engineering from The Ohio State University. She has been in the architecture, engineering and construction (AEC) industry for seven years, and has been a licensed Professional Engineer (PE) since 2014. She is an active member in the Urban Land Institute (ULI) Small Scale Development Local Product Council and is a Wilma H. Schiermeier Olentangy River Wetland Research Park Hall of Fame inductee.
